

December 19, 2019

Ray Dretske/Mark Kevitt - rSchoolToday

ray@rschooldtoday.com; mark@rschooldtoday.com

rSchoolToday Awarded Contract with Maine Principals' Association

Tampa, Florida: rSchoolToday®, creators of the most widely-used high school Sports Management Platform in the U.S., was awarded the contract from the Maine Principals' Association (MPA) to provide its Athletics Management System and Enterprise Web Publishing solution.

This will allow MPA to manage all aspects of governance, approval, scheduling, statistics, payment, reporting, and publishing for Maine's 148 high schools using rSchoolToday's cloud hosted platform.

The contract includes providing the rSchool Activity Scheduler, School Calendar, and Mobile app to each of the Maine high schools to manage their athletic /activity schedules, scores, rosters, student eligibility and coaches' eligibility. It also includes Refview™, rSchoolToday's integrated Officials assigning and payment platform.

While each school manages its own activities and operations, the Sports Management Platform delivers real-time data throughout the whole chain, including coaches, school administrators, the school community, parents, players, the media, the MPA, official's assigners, and officials. This paperless scheduling, assigning, notification, and payment workflow completely eliminates redundant data entry.

The rollout will begin this winter for full utilization starting in the 2020-2021 school year.

rSchoolToday® is based in Florida and currently serves over 8,700 U.S. schools with a suite of 21 software programs and mobile apps focused on creating more efficient communications and operations within the school community.

The Maine Principals' Association is the governing body for interscholastic sports and activities for Maine's 148 high schools.